

The Hospitality Workforce After Brexit: Breakfast Briefing

To be held in Central London | 28 March 2018

Background:

With the United Kingdom's membership of the EU coming to an end in 2019, businesses in the hospitality sector are asking how this will impact workforce planning. Approximately 15% of workers in the UK's fourth largest industry are from the EU. This is leading to significant uncertainty about how hospitality workforce numbers can be sustained post-Brexit.

Join our Breakfast Briefing for an up to date discussion on the latest developments in workforce planning in the hospitality sector. Hear how you can prepare for the hospitality industry after Brexit from parliamentarians and sector leaders. Discuss the impact on your organisation and how best to respond.

Agenda:

08.15 Registration & Refreshments

09.00 Introduction from Chair

09.05 Latest Developments, Key Issues to Resolve & Potential Outcomes

- How Brexit will have an impact on the access to potential workers
- The cost to companies: redundancy, recruitment and disruption to operations
- Removing the mind-set of menial work
- Promoting hospitality opportunities at schools and colleges
- Building career paths for young employees in the hospitality sector
- What companies can do to recruit and retain EU workers post-Brexit
- Opportunities for new sources of recruitment

11.00 Coffee & Networking

11.30 Event Close
